We flirt with boys,
don't give a darn at all;
chase after millions,
either big or small.

We wolf around in school all day,
and in the night we wend our way to Charlie's or some other place, just so people can see our face.

And also when we go to a dance,
all we look for is some new romance;
and then the fellow whose brain is in a swim,
is taken for a ride 'till we're through with him.

They say all this and plenty more,
that we're not girls worth fighting for;
but we guess we'll take it 'till they're through,
For we're really not Rah Rah,
and neither are you!!!
