Although still unable to establish the General Organization plan this year, the Senior Student Council maintained the active pace set by the '38 group.

Blocked in the G. O. attempt at the very beginning of the year because of lack of support, the Council nevertheless made several important advances in student self-government.

It somehow managed to keep its head above water financially, although it did have a very limited expense account.

Each activity in the School was granted a charter upon meeting the requirements, in spite of the fact that the much-disputed charter fee was abolished.

The clubs committee aided in conducting a survey of officers, membership, and committees of all school organizations.

The last of the writing paper, which has now haunted three successive Councils and which has exerted a rather depressive influence, was sold at last.

An investigation was conducted as to the possibility of issuing special passes to students who use the tennis courts, thus prohibiting outsiders from playing on them. This plan will undoubtedly be taken up in much more detail by next year's governing body.

All in all, The Student Council accomplished a great deal. Next year's group will have much on which to build and has excellent prospects if these achievements are any indication.
