

Teaneck Marine Is Killed on Iwo Jima

The first Bergen County Marine to lose his life in the battle of Iwo Jima was reported this week.

He is Staff Sergeant Henry W. Wolber of Teaneck, 24, husband of Mrs. Kay Wolber, 78 Ayers Court, Teaneck, a member of a Marine Corps demolition squad, who, according to word received by his wife, the former Kay Neumuller of Teaneck, died of wounds received February 23. Sergeant Wolber, holder of a Presidential Citation, was a veteran of Guadalcanal, Bougainville, Vella Lavella and New Caledonia.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Wolber Sr. of Utica, N. Y., Sergeant Wolber, prior to his enlistment in the Marine Corps in January, 1942, served a previous 4-year enlistment and spent 1 year in the Hawaiian Islands and three years at West Point, N. Y., attached to the Military Police. For the 3 months he was out of service, before he re-enlisted, he was employed by the Bendix Aviation Corporation in Teterboro as a guard. His death occurred 2 years and seven months to the day he and Miss Neumuller were married.

Sergeant Wolber upon re-entering service in 1942, was stationed at Washington, but was later transferred to the paratroops and trained at North Carolina. He was overseas 14 months, having participated in Guadalcanal, Bougainville, Villi-La Villi, New Caledonia, and had been awarded the Presidential Citation, when he was sent back to the United States to train with the demolition squad. He went overseas again last July.
