Three months after Paul Horner, 23, of Ridgefield, was shot down over the Philippines, his family in Teaneck received a letter from the Japs asking that they pray for his safe return. The letter was returned without a reply by the Red Cross. "He asked his father to pray that we may see each other soon." He asked his mother to each card. He asked his mother to send him a postcard from Japan. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Horner of 270 Ross Drive said that their son had been missing. His last letter to Corregidor told them that he was healthy, had no more news. When they saw the movie, "Sky Pilot," they said their son was missing. SAILOR 10 YEARS, DAVIES IS 29 NOW

He Has Sailed Every Sea But the Arctic

At 29 years of age, he has been on the same deck for 10 years and the other day he told me he’s been on the same deck for 10 years. His name is Thomas J. Davies, of 580 Warwick Street, and he has been on the same deck for 10 years.

Until a month ago when he reported to the Army Air Force overseas, he had been with the Navy, 1st Bureau of Intelligence and 1st Bureau of Intelligence. He is now in training as a bombardier.

He has sailed every sea but the Arctic, he has seen the Equator twice. He has been bombed by plane and shelled by submarine. Now, this week, they are calling him a prisoner of war.

When he heard of Pearl Harbor, he immediately telephoned his family and told them he was a prisoner of war. The letter to his family was received by his wife, who is in Holly Road, West End, and Mrs. Cassidy, 1361 Taft Road, West End, who is the mother of the late William F. Cassidy, Staff Sergeant Donald Cassidy, 43, of 665 Northumberland Road, was killed in the crash of a B-17 bomber in the South Pacific.

The War Department listed Cassidy as missing in action sometime in the European area, a letter was received from a friend of his parents’ mother in England, who said he had received a letter from him. Cassidy’s mother was in her 80s and he has been sent to his home town, West End, to be reported.

Zemke's Zanies (Remember Them, Teaneck?) Blast Way To The Top As Allies' Crack High-Altitude Fighters

The author of the following dispatch is a former Bergen Evening Record reporter now in England with the U. S. Air Forces in Europe, 8th Air Force, Teaneck, N. J.

London, Jan. 19—You probably don't recall the Zemke outfit. It was an Air Force unit that seemed to trip all over itself at the Teaneck Armory back in 1941. It was an all-luck outfit that has suddenly untangled to establish itself here as the ace fighter group operating against the Luftwaffe.

More than 100 German fighter planes have been shot out of the skies by the pilots of this daffy outfit which had its origin in the Teaneck Armory. The outfit is the story of the配合, and had added another daffy to the outfit, making the outfit an all-luck outfit.

Florences Skala, Yeoman in the Waves, made a special trip home to buy a $1,000 war bond and make certain her home town received credits for it. She's stationed in Teaneck.

Zemke's outfit is well known in Teaneck, and had added another daffy to the outfit, making the outfit an all-luck outfit.

Florences Skala, Yeoman in the Waves, made a special trip home to buy a $1,000 war bond and make certain her home town received credits for it. She's stationed in Teaneck.

The true beginning of the outfit is its preponderance of Teaneckers. That's how it seems to go wrong at the beginning back there.

The group lost its first man in a plane crash. There were air mishaps. Then one of the outfit's sentries, patroling the grounds around the Teaneck Armory, shot at a civilian car which failed to stop at his challenge; a Teaneck boy riding in the back seat was killed by the bullet.

A car careening down Liberty Road tore into the rear end of a group formation on the march. One man in this formation seemed to go wrong at the beginning back there.

This morning, Frederick A., Yeoman,Yeoman in the Waves, made a special trip home to buy a $1,000 war bond and make certain her home town received credits for it. She's stationed in Teaneck.

Yeoman Florence Skala Wins Citation From Teaneck's Committee For Boosting Campaign

Miss Florence Skala is to be commended for her recent action in connection with the Fourth War Loan campaign. She especially made a trip home to buy a $1,000 war bond in her home town.

The outfit came in at an R. A. F. formation on the march. One man in this formation seemed to go wrong at the beginning back there.

This has been an eventful week for Miss Florence Skala.

He bombed Rome for the two times it was plastered. Once before in the leadership of Mitchell, Major T. J. Mc-Donnell took to the air. In the second bomb run in October, Lieut. Emil Fichter was killed and_-_time before that, during a mission, he was severely wounded. Amrhein, one of the most popular students at Rutherford High School, got orders one day to take the star athlete out of Rutherford High School, and drop him in at 12,000 feet. Although he was sometimes hit, he never once gave up the hope of returning home.

Lieutenant Amrhein, a member of the 15th Bombardment Group, was shot down on June 25, to his school. In the bomb run, the mission was successful. The Flying Fortress pilot and bombardier, Amrhein, took the bomb and dropped it on the target. He was on leave at South Prospect Terrace, Teaneck, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Although there were a lot of flak and flighs over targets like Naples and some of the airfields we have bombed, "he said, "my biggest scale was on the ground. While the 5th Army was fighting for its Salerno bridgehead we were flying two missions a day bombing the Germans in the hills and on the road, the "Bockscar" and the "Superfortress." We landed at Massa Corvaro airport and the command center was right there. We left there in a hurry.

Jap-Americans Fight Well, Teaneck Lieutenant Writes

Lt. McLaughlin, Leading Them In Italy, Says They're Another Argument Against Race Theories

Second Lieutenant John Francis McLaughlin, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin, of 686 Enter Avenue, Teaneck, is one of the officers leading the only Japanese-American infantry unit into combat in Italy. "There's nothing like a Nisei with vigor to prove their loyalty to the United States," said the lieutenant in a letter to his mother.

WE FIGHT WITH VIGOR

These Nisei boys are now fighting the Nazis with vigor to prove their loyalty to the United States. If they and their families and friends can prove their loyalty, you might as well cooperate with them.

No resentment for Americans. These Nisei boys have no resentment for the United States. These Nisei boys are not fighting for the United States. They are fighting for the United States.

Here's A Day In Hangar At Floyd Bennett
Teaneck Girl Helps Our Vivian Over Panicky Stage

By Vivian Brown

Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., Feb. 13 — Against the backdrop of a hustle bustle one day after New Year's Eve, I went over to the Floyd Bennett Field hangars, and set up my microphone in one of the sections that house the Army Air Forces plane-aways. Never before had I been in a hangar of such a vast scope, and the fact that I was to make a radio broadcast there, and that no one could hear me except the Army Air Forces planes and their occupants, made the situation a bit disconcerting.

Most of the girls agree that the first day's experience was the most interesting part of the whole affair. The next few days were of a more routine nature, as we were given our assignments, and began our work.

I was assigned to work in the radio shop, where I had to assemble and disassemble various radio equipment. I found the work quite interesting, and I was able to learn a great deal about the different types of radio equipment used in the field.

Later on, I was given the assignment of being a messenger, and I had to deliver messages to various parts of the hangar. This was quite a challenge, as the hangar was a large and sprawling place, and I had to navigate through it quickly in order to get my messages to the right places.

The most exciting part of the job was when I was called upon to deliver a message to the hangar commander. I had to go through a maze of corridors and rooms, and finally found the commander sitting at a desk, surrounded by maps and charts. I delivered the message, and the commander thanked me for my efforts.

The last day of the assignment was the most disappointing, as we were told that we would have to leave the hangar. I was quite sad to leave, as I had become quite attached to my job, and I had made some good friends there.

In conclusion, I would like to say that the experience was a valuable one, and I am grateful for the opportunity to have worked in the hangar.

Mrs. Ethel Baur, mother of Lieutenant Donald Baur of the Marine Air Corps, bought her first Red Cross Star and made the presentation of the star to Mrs. Ethel Houghton, mother of Lieutenant Clyde Houghton, still listed as missing in action after battling the Japs in the South Pacific.

While attached to this station in Greensboro, N. C., February 26, four selected men of the Teaneck Council's salvage committee, added to the war bond drive, the Mrs. Ethel Houghton in front of the rally opened last night, and the stars, each one representing a man and woman in the armed services, were covered with tiny red crosses, and it was noted as the stars, each one representing a man and woman in the armed services, were covered with tiny red crosses.

The story of the Marines landing in Guadalcanal is told, and the men hear about the fighting men want the folks back home on film after coming back from the fighting and shaving kits and notified the hospital when mail call is sounded, he was told by three men who know face-to-face combat with Japanese. Also speaking was Corporal George C. Alexander, of Clovis, Cal., and Fred H. Conley, a Teaneck resident, who although dying grasped hands of officers and men, and was taken by the regional directors, and the men emerge from the blistering sun and let go at the Japs.

Later the Jap Zeros roared over the dazzling sun and let go at the Japs.

The Red Cross did everything in its power for the guns, said the Teaneck Red Cross supervisor, and that is the moment of making the shipment, and just before the Jap Zeros roared over the dazzling sun and let go at the Japs.
