Being Transferred
From Mindanao

REPORT 542 LOST

A prisoner of the Japanese along the fall of Bataan, Corporal Rudy Pfeifer of Teaneck, formerly of Ridgefield Park, who was All-County, All-State football tackle in 1932 and had lived while being transferred from a prison camp in Mindanao to Japan, it was learned here today.

The 26-year soldier died last December 15 when the ship he was aboard was bombed and sunk in the Subic Bay.
The War Department telegram to the family of three sons of the late Mrs. Roy Pfeifer was received by Mrs. Roy Pfeifer, who said she had heard of the death of her son from Radio City news this morning.

The last news of Pfeifer was received on April 12 and MacArthur's answer was dated the 24th. The General revealed that Pfeifer's name was among those who were transferred to Japan, but said he did not know when he had been transferred or if he had reached his destination.

Born in New York City, Corporal Pfeifer died in the house in Ridgefield Park where he was graduated from Ridgefield Park High School in 1932, the year he was selected All-State and All-County. At the Park high school he was a 4-year letterman in football, and track. He was graduated from Ridgefield Park High School in 1933, the year he was selected All-State and All-Country. At the Park high school he was a 4-year letterman in football, and track. He played football under the late Carl Biggs, former Ridgefield Park coach, and upon graduating was awarded a scholarship to Syracuse University for his athletic ability. At Syracuse he was also a 4-year letterman in football, and track. He played football under the late Carl Biggs, former Ridgefield Park coach, and upon graduating was awarded a scholarship to Syracuse University for his athletic ability.

The War Department telegiam, he was graduated from the University in 1933 with a B.S. degree, he taught for three years in Ridgefield Park.

They had heard from their son three times since his death. The last card was received March, 1944.
The last they saw their son was September, 1941, when he left for overseas. Six members of the family are enlisted in the Army in March of that year, and were home only on week-end passes. He never had a divorce.

BROTHER HOMER DISCHARGED

Corporal William Pfeifer, who was officially discharged from the Marine Corps last month, he was among the 618 prisoners to be transferred from Camp Number 5, Mindanao. The ship left December 15 and was sunk in the Subic Bay.

BOMBED IN SUBIC BAY

According to the letter which followed the Government telegram, the ship was one of 1,400 prisoners to be transferred from Camp Number 5, Mindanao. The ship left December 15 and was sunk in the Subic Bay.

Major Knimbaoh arrived home on furlough Saturday after a 27-day, 10,000-mile flight in a Douglas Invader from France and the North Africa Air Force. He spent today with his old associates at the 25th, where he was employed in the advertising department for three years before the war.

The pilot of medics and light bombers took part in thirty-five missions to destroy enemy bridges, depots, railway yards, and troop concentrations. Once his face was scratched when his windshield was smashed by flak. Many times his plane was shot up, and after one mission it had 150 holes in it. He operated from England until September, 1944, and afterwards from six different bases in France. His group was preparing to move from Elsholz to Stuttgart, Germany, when VJ Day arrived.

Enlisted in 1941, Major Knimbaoh, who expects to be sent to the South Pacific, is a squadon commander, wears the Air Medal, two battle stars, Distinguished Flying Cross, and other decorations. "I have seen the damage in Germany, where the cities and other souvenirs. I have seen the damage in Germany, where the cities and troop concentrations. One especially striking experience was at Argentan, France. Visibility was zero and disagreeable experiences were the rule. Bombing certainly did its part towards making the air war an exciting and thrilling victory."

The Major said his most thrilling and disagreeable experience in the air was on one return from Argentan, France. Visibility was zero and the formation of planes got off course. Several planes went down, and all sustained damages.

Major Knimbaoh attended school for flying cadets in New York City, and joined the Air Corps at 21, when he was asked about the Air Force's contribution to the war victory. "Bombing certainly did its part towards making the air war an exciting and thrilling victory."

Teaneck Man Films Epic Of Navy's "Fighting Lady"

"The Fighting Lady," the Navy's Technicolor epic of an aircraft carrier which delighted audiences at nearby motion picture houses a few weeks ago, was, in the main, the photographic work of Ph. M. Kenneth Henderson, son of Mrs. Catherine H. Henderson of 1090 Alicia Avenue, West Englewood.

"The Fighting Lady," the Navy's Technicolor epic of an aircraft carrier which delighted audiences at nearby motion picture houses a few weeks ago, was, in the main, the photographic work of Ph. M. Kenneth Henderson, son of Mrs. Catherine H. Henderson of 1090 Alicia Avenue, West Englewood.

He entered the Navy in February, 1944, leaving a position as advertising photographer in the International Nickel Company. When the new Hornet, replacing her namesake ship in the Pacific in 1944 after carrying the first raid on Japan, was commissioned in February, 1944, Henderson was assigned as deck photographer of still and motion pictures. Leaving the United States in February, 1944, the Hornet saw her first action at Palau and Wolei on March 9.

The official Navy release lists 32 separate operations and carrier strikes at strategic Jap positions, outstanding of which was the carrier strike at Pusan on a consecutive 4-day defense against Japanese air and land-based aircraft from October 15 to 18 and against the Jap Fleet in the battle of Jol and Siberian, on October 25 and 26.

Following that battle, the Hornet was engaged continuously in carrier strikes against Leyte, Langley, Manila Bay, Yap Island, Formosa and Batan Peninsula, culminating in action against Guemath Bay, French Indochina, on January 19, Hong Kong on January 20 and Okinawa and Nantai Shio, Japan, on January 22.

It is expected the Hornet will shortly return to the country for repairs and a rest for the crew. A little over a year, she has logged over 20,500 miles flight time out of the million available hours in the Navy for destruction wrought on the Japs.

Henderson is engaged to Miss Rutherlond and Pic. Prank Morrone of Teaneck, brought with him a missionary spirit and the Teaneck pilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Cerasani of 250 East Forest Avenue, Teaneck, was recently promoted to First Lieutenant.

VETERANS GIVEN FREE GUIDANCE

Booklet Made Available Telling Benefits

Distribution of booklets outlining services of the Teaneck Veterans Council began today when they were delivered to the Teaneck Draft Board office by the council.

Each returning veteran will be given one of the booklets. It has been the experience of many service men that they did not know the full extent of the services available to them. The booklet is being mimeographed immediately upon receipt from the council. It was for this reason that State and Federal laws were recently enacted extending the time within which a veteran may apply for benefits. The time limit on State loans also has been increased. The booklet, one of the booklet, tells the service man how to go about it.

Believing that veterans were being neglected while in service, the booklet, explaining the purpose of the booklet, consists of 6 pages, 4 by 6 inches, and has been made as concise as possible. It contains 1 page, 1 by 4 inches, explaining the terms and conditions of the State and Federal loans, and the 3 pages, 4 by 6 inches, consisting of data of each page. Teaneck Defers Its Party Until The War Is Won

Welcome-Home Celebrations Are Postponed By Order Of Military Executive Committee

The Teaneck Military Service executive committee voted last night to defer any welcome-home celebrations for the more than 3,400 Teaneck service men and women until after the end of the war with Japan.

Two plans had been submitted by the welcome-home division of the committee to have a dinner now for the 300 who have been discharged and prolonged dinners for groups of 20 or more as the veterans are released, the alternative to be informal parties in groups of about 100. Under the latter plan, the expense per individual would be half that of the former, enabling the committee to entertain twice as many people for the same amount as under the dinner plan.

The problem of raising the funds to defray the expense was said to be too large for the executive committee and it will be referred to the next full meeting of the committee on September 10.

Providing of cigarettes, recreational equipment, and meals for veterans who now patients in government hospitals was also deferred for the September meeting.

The consensus of opinion was that the group's name and purpose concern its activities to veterans who have been discharged from service and the continuation of its work to include hospital patients will have to be decided by the general committee.

The first case of veteran assistance was reported by the committee.

Battle of Bulge Veteran Home on 33 Day Leave

A veteran of the Battle of the Bulge, in which most of the 160th Infantry was wiped out, Pvt. Warren Peter of Teaneck describes that ordeal simply as "rough." He recently arrived in Boston aboard the German Bliss, and is on a 33-day furlough until September 9.

Peter wears the combat infantry man's badge, the badge for meritorious service, four battle stars, and the Good Conduct Medal. He participated in the Battle of the Rhine, the Ardennes campaign, and in Northern France, in addition to the Bulge.

A graduate of Teaneck High School, Peter attended Bergen Junior College and entered the Army on September 14, 1942. The son of Henry Peter of Sagamore Avenue, he is married to the former Miss Ruth Passanante of Wilson Avenue, Teaneck. He served overseas a year, and has been transferred to the 28th Keystone Division.

Postal Employee Missing In Alaska

According to word received by his aunt, Mrs. Ellen Maves, Sergeant Bernard T. Curley of Teaneck, 35-year-old gunner on a B-25 Mitchell bomber, is missing in action in the Alaskan Area since July 10. After flying his last mission before leaving for a rest camp, Sergeant Curley, formerly of Hackensack, has 18 missions to his credit. In a letter to his aunt dated July 14, two days before he was reported lost, he said that after his next mission he expected to go to Juneau for a rest.

Sergeant Curley entered the Army in January, 1941, and applied for pilot training with the Air Force. This course was discontinued due to the war. He was transferred to the regular Air Force and trained as a ground crewman. He received his wings at Kelly Field, Houston, Texas, after which he was instructed in gunnery at Tuscaloosa Field, Ala. Last November he was sent overseas.

A graduate of Hackensack High School, Sergeant Curley, prior to his induction, was employed in the Post Office in Weehawken. His brother, Technical Sergeant Thomas Curley, is with the Field Artillery in the Pacific.

Lt. Robert Jares Reports

Lieutenant Robert C. Jares of Sagamore Avenue, Teaneck, has just reported to the A.A.F. Redistribution Center in Atlantic City for reassignment. He completed a 60-day furlough granted after his liberation from a German prison camp.

The Teaneck pilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jares, attended Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and was employed at the Wright-Aircraft Corporation in Pennsylvania, prior to entering the service.

India Starved, Dirty, Hounded By Beggars, But Chinese, Raiders Are Great, Says Farr

Jeep Rolled Over Teaneck Major But He Kept On, Adding Ill, Wounded As British And Americans Whose Jap Hopes, Drove Them Out Of Burma

"What India needs is a good 5 cent cigar, but a square meal, Major Walter Farr of 288 Griggs Avenue, Teaneck said today, following his return on a 30-day furlough from 2 years of service with the U. S. Army Medical Corps in the C. B. T. theater of operations.

One of the first doctors to leave for service from Teaneck, Major Farr was called in July, 1942, and following his basic medical training, was executive in charge of India operations for 4 months. Of this period, Major Farr was detached to Running. China, giving orders and distributing supplies to the Lushai and Burma Roads. The first few days of travel were something to remember, as it was a 1000 mile overland journey on mules, donkeys, and oxen. Along the way we saw the Chinese tenacity in their fond love for animal food. Many of my early impressions were of Chinese starvation. They were very dirty and goats, sheep, and pigs the main meat. They did not even have the courage to walk on after the ram. What a sight they made here were very different from the hungry Japs of the European theater of operations. We were all in the hospital here, having covered a little over 1000 miles. On the march every building is crowded with shops, and there are plenty of fountain pens. The Chinese are very poor but very hard working, and you can get them to do anything. There is a great variety of products and many doctors are needed. We were told to operate a hospital to take care of the sick and wounded. We were told to give them first aid, and we did. But I have not heard of any doctors or nurses being sent in. Giant Rookie Wounded

On Okinawa

Sergeant Merrill Marian Tucker of West Englewood, former student in baseball and wrestling at Teaneck High School and later a star pitcher on the New York Yankees' minor league team, was wounded in action on Okinawa, the Navy Department reported today. The 27-year-old pitcher suffered a broken rib and slashed wounds of his head while fighting with the 3rd Marine Division June 9.

He was shot down on Okinawa less than a month ago, Sergeant Tucker when he heard from his mother, Mrs. Roberta M. Tucker of Teaneck Road, was recuperating in a rest camp. He is now believed to be back with his outfit.

Sergeant Tucker was graduated from Teaneck High School in 1937. Besides being active in baseball and wrestling, he played on the basketball team. Following his graduation he played with several minor league teams, including Hartford, New York, and Scranton.

He spent the summer of 1937 with the Charlie in Montgomery and upon returning to the States in the States, he enlisted in the Marines and underwent basic training at Parris Island, South Carolina. He was sent overseas in March.

His brother, Sergeant Noel Tucker is with the Army and when last heard from was in Southern France.

There's No Glory In War, Major Farr Tells Teaneck

Soldier Has Truer Realization Of Its Actualities He Says At Formal Observance

"There is no glory in war but it is necessary to do your duty and suffer for it," Major Walter J. Farr told the students gathered in observance of the day of prayer and thanksgiving at Teaneck Town Hall yesterday.

"Because of the change in the character of war, the modern disillusionment of knowledge and the fact that every family has one or more members in the armed forces, the pump and shirt and flag waving have gone and in its place there are few realizations of the actualities of war, the recognition of pain, and awareness of the necessity of international understanding and a deep, earnest desire to work towards a repetition of wholesale slaughter," the speaker said.

"Many times I have heard our Valleymen refer to history on the apparent lack of mankind, the lack of real understanding and realizing the new relationship between nations and countries, but when there was a job to be done, the American soldier took his weapons and did his job. Even now every man in this room is fighting for his own nation and it is up to us to see that the men who paid the price of our freedom will see that there will be no repetition of the wholesale slaughter."

Shepherd Back After Escape From Teaneck

Rex, the fighting German shepherd dog, is back home today after a four months' absence and the search for Richard Marchisio of 45 New Bridge Road, Teaneck, was happy for more reasons than one.

As a result of the description given in yesterday's edition of the Bergen Record, the dog had been missed by Richard Marchisio again went to Bergenfield police that he had the dog.

Page Road, Teaneck, is happy for his coat, which it is now believed Rex got some of the paint in getting acquainted with an friend. As part of the home cleaning, Rex's kennel had been removed to Ringside and set out for a familiar scene. He slipped his harness yesterday and a regular police officer for North Jersey. Mr. Hess was notified by the folks they left behind in England, saying they sailed for home again. He slipped its harness yesterday and was at a Jap prison camp in Manilla, will be reunited, with him at the Channel in search of her husky aboard the Queen Mary. Today was the greatest noisiest welcome since V-E Day for her returning group.

Teaneck Corporal's Returned Army Pet May Be Headed West, K-9 Expert Believes

A Teaneck police alarm was out today for a fighting man's fighting dog, Richard Marchisio of 45 New Bridge Road reported to Bergenfield police that he had the dog, which it is now believed that he had the dog, is back home today after a four months' absence and the search for Richard Marchisio.

"These dogs have a powerful homing instinct," Mr. Hess said, "and it depends on what has been done to the dog." The dog's war record has not been forwarded, but it seems that with a wound near the right eye, it weighs 60 pounds, and the left eye is closed. Mr. Marchisio described it as quiet and well disciplined. It belongs to his son, Corporal Richard Marchisio, who is an ordinance warrior with the 44th Engineers Regiment. Corporal Marchisio, who will not Wednesday have been in service a year, said about how in every letters home, his father said: "H.E.S. HERE NOV."

O'Hara Safe On Release From Japan

One Bergen County man was among the first group of American prisoners to be returned yesterday, and the parents of another were notified that their son was at a Jap prison camp in Manilla. It was reported today.

Lieutenant Arthur P. O'Hara of 47 Grayson Place, Teaneck, was evacuated from a San Francisco military hospital to be returned to the 44th Engineers Regiment.

Mrs. Michael Petak of Redcliffe Street, Wyckoff, was notified by hospital yesterday that the name of her son, Pvt. Joseph Petak, was on the list of boys returned to Bergenfield and Mitchell Avenue. He was injured in an accident. The dog masses on decks and shouts of joyous welcome sound from theperature on the 44th Engineers Regiment.

Major Peto, Teaneck Nurse Home After 3 Years In War

Wearer Of 3 Battle Stars, 6 Overseas Stripes Suffered Only Bee Sting, Tumble In Campaigns

Major Marjory Peto of West Englewood is home from the wars with bee stings, a fall in a blacked out London street and a tumble into a six-foot trench her only personal casualties. But the small blue-eyed Army nurse spent more than three years overseas caring for American wounded and the three battle stars on her European Theater ribbon and the six overseas stripes on her sleeve only hint at her experiences and ordeals.

Major Marjory Peto

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peto, of 1293 Sussex Road, West Englewood, Major Peto, with 15 years experience as head nurse and supervisor at Medical Center, was appointed Chief Nurse and consultant of the 45th Field Hospital.

When members of the Staff of Medical Center formed the Second General Hospital, February 15, 1942, and went to Port M Gda, Maryland for training, Miss Peto, with 15 years experience as head nurse and supervisor, was appointed Chief Nurse and consultant of the 45th Field Hospital.

The unit left Fort Dix for Liverpool, June 30, 1942. The Second General Hospital was stationed at the American Hospital of Saint Maries, France, which was established by American citizens before the United States entered the war. The Army took charge following American entry into the war, and Miss Peto and her staff worked there two years. She was promoted to Captain in May 1943.

On July 24, 1944, the group established a tent hospital in a 200-acre orchard near Saint Lo, in France, with Miss Peto as Major in charge.

In the beginning, Major Peto said, the greatest problem facing American service men and their medical units was frostbite. Flying units and Navy personnel and some cases of trenchfeet resulted in amputation. Skeletons lay in empty and abandoned hospitals.

It was at the tent hospital near Saint Lo that Major Peto discovered that a bee will sting, unwarmed or not.

This bee was a major problem in operating rooms, the Major said. The nurses collected empty ice cream cartons and manufactured for use in the operating rooms. The nurses made ice packs for the operating rooms.

On August 25, 1944, the group moved to Marseilles and shipped in Hampton Roads, Va., October 15, and sailed the General Bridge.

Major Peto is on terminal leave January 9, and will return to what she calls a "military job" at the Medical Center. Her Battle Stares which she had earned while working with the Normandy armies in France and the Midland.
